

NEBOSH General Certificate

The NEBOSH General Certificate in Occupational Health and Safety training course is a widely recognised qualification for general health and safety responsibilities.

The NEBOSH General Certificate Course is For:

The NEBOSH General Certificate in Occupational Health and Safety training course is for personnel e.g. managers, supervisors, non-safety specialists etc with health and safety responsibilities and who need a grounding and recognised qualification in occupational safety and health.

Learning Outcomes:

- Understand the legal framework, moral and economic requirements and implications for good standards in health and safety within an organisation.
- Develop, promote and communicate an effective health and safety culture in an organisation.
- Identify the key features of a health and safety policy, the preparations and performance review of a health and safety audit.
- Understand the importance of proactive and reactive health and safety monitoring measures.
- Identify hazards in the workplace and carry out risk assessments, record findings and review procedures.
- Advise on strategies for controlling hazards, reducing risks and applying safe systems of work.
- Identify fire hazards and consequential risks, advise on measures to minimise fire risks and develop fire procedures.
- Identify ill health effects of physical processes of work and the environment and recommend suitable measures to combat risks.
- Explain the processes and procedures for investigating and reporting accidents at work.

Examination

Each delegate is required to sit two unit written exams during the NEBOSH General Certificate training course and a hand written practical assessment.

Important Information

Delegates are awarded the NEBOSH General Certificate in Occupational Health and Safety on successful completion of the training course. Certificates are issued by the examining body NEBOSH approximately 16 weeks after the last day of the course ending including exams.

Please note: late payment for bookings may be subject to a late booking fee due to exam registration close dates.